

Scianni, Melissa

---

From: SHOJI, KERRY on behalf of R9.Info
Sent: Thursday, February 19, 2015 12:18 PM
To: Blumenfeld, Jared
Cc: COHEN, Deborra
Subject: FW: Please act to save San Francisco Bay in Redwood City from Cargill development

This message was received in the R9 Info mailbox. I am forwarding it to you.

--Kerry Shoji

Kerry L. Shoji, MLIS
Librarian (contractor, ASRC Primus)
U.S. EPA Region 9 Library /75 Hawthorne Street/ San Francisco, CA 94105-3920

shoji.kerry@epa.gov
415-972-3695 phone
415-947-3553 fax
<http://www.epa.gov/region9/library>

---

From: Steve Raab [mailto:s[REDACTED] b6]
Sent: Wednesday, February 18, 2015 12:44 PM
To: Blumenfeld, Jared
Cc: R9.Info
Subject: Please act to save San Francisco Bay in Redwood City from Cargill development

To: Jared Blumfeld, EPA Regional Administrator, Region 9

Dear Mr Blumfeld,

San Francisco Bay's waters are under attack, and we need your urgent leadership to preserve federal protection for them. Many years ago salt ponds were created along Redwood City's bay waterfront and have been operated by Cargill. During the past several years Cargill has been working to repurpose this bay land for residential and commercial development that could expand the population of Redwood City by one third and destroy irreplaceable wetlands. Such an outcome would be a tragedy, as this area is clearly a part of the bay and should be restored to natural wetlands, in fact property inland adjacent to this site again suffered seasonal flooding during last month's rains. As a longtime Redwood City resident I feel that I must speak up to preserve the integrity of the bay.

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers is poised to relinquish federal Clean Water Act jurisdiction on San Francisco Bay salt ponds at the request of Cargill, the largest private corporation in the United States. Cargill's heavy lobbying of Corps lawyers resulted in an internal legal memo that would reverse decades of federal protection for Bay salt ponds, and upend long-established precedents. That novel, unilateral re-interpretation of the Clean Water Act was created in secret, without EPA consultation, Congressional approval, or opportunity for public input. It's outrageous!

Cargill has brazenly declared it wants to win exemption from the Clean Water Act and other legal protections for salt ponds in Redwood City, California, so it can pave over wetlands to build thousands of homes in the Bay there. But the EPA can still preserve legal protection for the Bay's salt ponds. We urge you to use your authority to prevent the U.S. Army Corps from declining Clean Water Act jurisdiction on Bay salt ponds, and ensure that the EPA retains the lead responsibility for evaluating federal protection of these important waters of the United States.

Thank you for your consideration.

Sincerely,

Stephen Raab

b6